To thwart any concerns you may have, we've debunked some of the most common myths about the flu vaccine.

Myth: If you get the flu vaccine, you will get the flu.

- You cannot get the flu from the vaccine because it is comprised of inactivated viruses. You may experience minor soreness or redness at the injection site, headaches, a low-grade fever or a runny nose for a day or two after receiving the shot.

Myth: Getting an annual flu shot will weaken your immune system.

- The flu vaccine will actually boost your immune system to fight off the virus. Those who get the vaccine every year are 70-90 percent more likely to avoid the flu.
